THE CHICAGOS MAKE PLENTY OF RUNS AND TAKE

SECOND PLACE. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] CHICAGO, July 5.—"It's just Chicago's confounded back," said Manager Mutrie before the ball game was called to-day, "to catch us in the third game with our men all used up." In fact it is strange that New York made any showing at all considering the condition of most of her crack players. Richardson was hurt yesterday, and had to be laid off entirely. Dorgan's arm was so lame he could not throw a ball ten feet, but he had to go into he field or leave it vacant. O'Rourke broke a finger in oud inning and was retired to third base. Ewing the second insing and was retired to third base. Ewing had to cover second in Richardson's place, while Keefe's aboulder was lame and he was not as affective as usual, but had to be kept in the box, as the White Stockings hit Tiernan, who was tried for two innings, unmercifully. Welch was laid up with a lame leg and could not go on the field. So altogether it was little less than a wonder that even the optimistic Mutric was unhappy before the game was begun. After it was over all he or any one else could say was—" I told you so."

In the latter half of the second inning Keefe had to let flown in his pitching as his shoulder was troubling him, and Chicago naturally began to make runs. Pfeffer went out to Connor, but Williamons got in a two-backy and and scored on Ewing's error and Keefe's will gitch. Then Burns and Loly got bases on balls. Clarkson made and the Burns and Loly got bases on balls. Clarkson made and the Burns and Loly got bases on balls. SHARP'S APPETITE FAILS HIM.

A CONSULTATION OF PHYSICIANS HELD-NO PEARS

ABOUT RICHMOND. The Fourth had no glory in it for Jacob Sharp.
The heat oppressed him; the noise amoyed him; the terrid and sulphurous patriotism of the small boys who "celebrated" around the jail touched no sympathetic chord within his breast. He went to bed at 9:30 p. m. and passed a restless night. He was to verish and the solicitous steution of his wite failed to bring him repose. During the whole night he dozed for only about an hour. When morning broke he was much exhausted. Contrary to his usual custom since he has been in jail he had his breekfast served to him he has been in jail he had his breakfast served to him in bed and he made only a pretence of eating it, eating in text, nothing at all. When he made an attempt to swallow anything he was seized with vomiting. He stayed in bed. The attendants wondered whether his "nerve" were deserting him. Mr. Sticknoy called at JO o'clock. Ex-luige Nelson arrived a little later. They conversed with Sharp for an hour, But their talk had no rallying effect upon the old man. He had no desire to leave his bed. Nothing could tempt his appetite. He rejected all the lood that was offered him. He read the papers with some satisfaction, perhaps, because they contained only exceed-

Mr. Gibbens also informed the Board that the Subway Commission had granted the Metropolitan Telephone Company permission to creet and maintain poles and string wires along Fenth-ave, from Fifty-ninth-sk to the Yonkers line. The condition was that the old poles should be removed. This had not been done. The telephone company will be asked why this has not been done. Mr. Gibbens said that under the provisions and authority of the law creating the new Hoard it was authorized to direct any company using wires to place them in the conduits provided by the commission within ulney days. He moved that the Metropolitan Company be directed to remove its poles in Sixth ave, from Twenty-second-st. to Fifty-eighth st., as a subway had been built along that route. This was adopted.

w. Reynolos & Co., 10,000 and the Central National Bank $10,000.

The assignee, who is connected with the firm in a confidential capacity, told a Tribuna reporter last night and emphasized the fact that an "assignment" was all that had happened yet, as distinguished from a total collapse. In expressed himself, however, as being unable as yet to state exactly how matters are likely to come out. The nominal liabilities he put at between $700,000 and $800,000; the assets at about $1,200,000, consisting of property—mostly real estate—outstanding debts, and so forth. The actual value of these assets may not amount to nearly as much as this, as one of the reasons given for the assignment is the number of outstanding bad debts due to the firm. Other reasons are the tightness of the money market and large calls to pay out.

The business was established in 1835 under the title of Wolcot & Richards. In 1840 Lambert & Wolcot became the firm name; and four years later the name of Slade first appears in conjunction with that of Wolcot. In 1862 the style of John Slade & Oo. was adopted, and when John Shade, the father of the present partners, died in August, 1873, his sons retained it. Mr. Slade senior at his death left a fortune of half a million dollars to be divided among his sens, who had already been in the business some time when they succeeded to it.

been in the business some time when they successed to it.

A member of a large dry-goods house in Leonard et. said he regretted that prominence had been given to this failure. The Slades, he said, were an old and highly honorable house, but their transactions were conducted on a very medicrate basis. The failure was a matter of little significance—none whatever to the trade, for the reason that the liabilities of the firm were almost entirely due outside of the trade, viz.: to bankers and capitalists who held their paper, and this he believed was secured. The failure, he added, was the result of the recent flurry in the money market. It could work no injury to the dry-goods trade nor the general business. There would be no resulting failures, and no similar failures were probable.

denying the statements made in the resolutions recently submitted by the Republican District Committee of the XXIIId Assembly District, in regard to the police interference at a primary held in Hildebrandt's Hall on April 22. Mr. Crane asserts that the charges set forth in the resolution are false from beginning to end. Before the primary took place, Captain Hooker was requested by petition, in writing, signed by A. M. Underhill, of the Guion Line, and many others, all well-known Republicans in the district, to furnish police protection.

Mr. Crane denies that the police were active partisans of the Crane ticket, so-called, at the primary. He states that no boasts were made by him or by others, to his knowledge, before the primary, that the police would assist the alleged Crane ticket. The pelice did not hire the room over that in which the primary was held, the truth being that Mr. Crane himself hired it, in his own name, by a written agreement, signed by the propriet of the place, nor did the police or any one officer in attendance have free beer to that room on that day. He denies that Captain Hooker had in advance given special instructions to his men to "work the Crane ticket," or that he ever stated that he intended the ticket should win at the primary; neither did the police, while in uniform, peddic Crane, that the ward detectives caused the doors to be opened, as stated, or that they placed Crane supporters in line, in advance of others who had come before them, or that the police in any instance used their positions to crowd out of line a single person who was entitled to be there. Under the rules of the County Committee of the Republican party, three challengers or watchers are allowed to each side, and the persons so selected were at liberty to challenge voters, and did so, and the police had nothing to say in the matter. The statement that the captain in charge attempted lilegally to remove a challenger from the room is asserted to be absolutely false.

In conclusion Mr. Crane says that he writes n
